

Ms. Draeger's Newsletter

Language Arts:

This week our alphafriend was Tiggy Tiger and sight word (a) was introduced. The students have been working very hard on using their sight words to help them write sentences during our Writer's Workshop. This week each student chose a sticker that they wanted to write about. First they had to add details for their illustrations. Next, they had to think of a sentence that went along with their sticker illustration. They loved using their imaginations and creativity during their writing time! This is a fun activity to do at home too if you have any stickers laying around :)

Homework:

Please put your alphabet flashcards back in your child's homework folder on Monday. I will be sending notes home to you on what your child needs to work on - either letters, letter sounds, or I will keep their flashcards if they are ready to move on to something else.
Thank you

Math:

We did some adding and subtracting story problems this week. When we do story problems we draw a picture (circles) to help us write our math equation and come up with an answer.
